

THERE'S SOMETHING about a soldier, according to a once popular song and one may also say there is something about an auction that is appealing to practically everyone. Each year at the New Lenox Lions club festival an auction is conducted. Items donated by people of the community are put up for sale and what is more they are always sold. The picture above shows some of the crowd at the auction on the Lions Den grounds last Saturday night with Norman Strassenberg the auctioneer. In the picture below some of the visitors are looking over some of the other attractions offered by the festival. There were all kinds of games and contests. (Graphic Newspaper photo)

New Courthouse, Jail, For Will County Up For Decision Monday

A new combined courthouse and jail to be erected on the courthouse square in Joliet will be recommended by the committee on county planning at a special meeting of the Will county board of supervisors next Monday morning.

The recommendation will also include authorization for the Public Building Commission to proceed with preliminary planning at the earliest possible date.

The committee on county planning is made up of county board members, Herman L. Olivo, is chairman, and members are, John E. Francis, of New Lenox, Maurice F. Adamson, Paul A. Green, William H. McCarthy, George M. O'Brien and Barney N. Welter.

This committee has been engaged in a study of needs for a new courthouse and jail for many months and copies of its findings and recommendations have been delivered to every member of the board.

The present courthouse, which was built in 1884, plus a one-story addition erected about 10 years ago, has a total gross area of 49,600 square feet, of which only half, 24,800 is usable space, the other half being represented by corridors, partitions stairwells, etc. The gross area of the county jail is 8,500 square feet; the sheriff's residential structure, 5,000 square feet, and the garage, 1,350 square feet. According to the committee about 40% of the total gross area is listed as net usable because of the inadequate conditions of these structures.

In the proposed new building the jail area would total 27,000 square feet and the courthouse 120,900 square feet. Corridors, stairwells, elevators, toilets, janitors closets, mechanical equipment space would take about 30% of the courthouse space leaving a new usable area of 84,630 square feet. Deducting 30% of the gross area of the jail section would give that portion 18,900 square feet of usable area, the committee states.

It is estimated that the courthouse area would cost $27 a square foot of $3,264,300; the jail area would cost about $34 per square foot or $18,000. Site improvement is listed at $90,000; architectural and engineering fees, $224,300 (5 1/4%); blueprinting, material testing, $22,400; contingency (5%) $226,000; demolition, $60,000; financing and printing, $100,000; administrative and legal fees, $100,750; one year funded interest, $194,250 sum to be paid county for site, $350,000 for a grand total of $5,550,000.

It is estimated that building a separate courthouse and a separate jail on separate sites would cost $6,000,000.

The committee reports that to remodel the present courthouse, as some have proposed, would cost more than to build a new one.

Tax wise the combined courthouse and jail plan would mean a rate of seven cents per $100 assessed valuation and eight cents for a separate courthouse and jail on separate sites for the first year, with likelihood of a lesser amount for each succeeding year, the report states.

The committee does not recommend the calling of a referendum to seek approval of a new building program, pointing out that such an election would cost $35,000 plus the cost of presenting facts to the voters that are already well known to the officials elected by them with the expectation they would assume the responsibilities their positions carry.

Under a law enacted in 1955 the legislature set up a new procedure for construction of public buildings. Under the Public Building Commission Act referendums are not required. When such a commission is set up it is empowered to issue bonds to meet the cost of erecting public buildings.

The city of Joliet is to build a city hall thru the Public Building Commission that would handle the proposed courthouse and jail.

Under the proposal the courthouse and jail would be paid for in 18 years. If the bonds carry 3 1/2% interest, as the committee figures, the interest on the combined jail and courthouse would run to approximately $2,024,000 for the 18 years.

The city of Joliet is to build a city hall thru the Public Building Commission that would handle the proposed courthouse and jail.

L-W Budget To Go On File At School Aug. 8

The tentative budget for Lincoln-Way Community high school, Dist. 210, for the current fiscal year which began July 1 and ends June 30, 1964, will be available for public inspection at the school beginning next Thursday, Aug. 8. The board of education is scheduled to adopt the measure Sept. 12.

The budget provides for expenditures totaling $1,547,898. Almost half of this figure is represented by the $750,000 bond issue to cover the cost of the new addition to the school which is now under construction.

Since the money must be spent it must be included in the budget.

The other large item is the educational fund which is tentatively set down at $535,275.

The building fund amounts to $97,500 and provides for the maintenance and repair of the school plant and approximately $44,000 in salaries for the custodial staff.

The educational fund is used to meet the operational expenses of the school, including salaries for clerical workers, teachers and administrators, and supplies. In all, the salaries that come out of the educational tax fund total approximately $372,500.

The tax rate for the educational funds is $1.07 per $100 of equalized assessed valuation; the building fund rate is 18 and three-quarters cents; a two cents tax is levied to meet bus transportation costs and the tax rate to pay off bonds and interest is about 25 cents per $100 valuation.

The assessed valuation for 1962-63 is estimated to be approximately $2,300,000 higher than for 1961-62, which should bring some more money into the school funds.

The two cent tax for transportation yields approximately $10,500 a year, which is less than a third of the cost to operate the buses. Transportation costs approximately $34,800. More than half of this, $17,750 is paid by the state. This amount plus the $10,500 realized from the transportation tax provides over $28,000, leaving some $6,000 to come from the education fund. Bonds and interest will require a levy of some $175,000, which include interest payments on the $750,000 building bond issue which will be due next year. There are four bond issues included in this figure.

The budget will be on file for public inspection in the school office. Persons interested are urged by school authorities to go over the budget. It's passage is slated for 8 o'clock the night of Sept. 12 at the regular board meeting in the high school.

Will County's Annual 4-H Club Fair Draws Thousands

By the time the annual Will County 4-H Club Show ends tonight it will have attracted thousands of visitors to the many exhibits on display at the Fred H. Francis Field on Francis rd. in New Lenox township.

The Will County 4-H clubs are one of the fortunate few organizations of its kind that have a fairground of its own. The ground itself was given for the purpose by the estate of the late Fred Francis, supervisor and farmer of New Lenox township, who was one of the original backers of the 4-H movement in Will county.

Thru their own efforts and with the aid of public spirited citizens the 4-H boys and girls of Will county are steadily improving the grounds. There is an exhibition hall, livestock display barns, an utility building and a show ring and to say that all of the areas have been busy places the past three days is quite an understatement.

Strict rules cover all events and all winners really earn their trophies and ribbons.

All 4-H'ers in the county have an opportunity to display their projects and they are as varied as they are many. There is a rabbit show, poultry show, conservation, small fruits, flower garden, home ground improvement, rock collections, vegetables, farm crop tractor, auto, horse, dog, goat, sheep, swine, photography, bird study, indoor gardening, handicraft, electricity, entomology, forestry, dairy cattle, purebred beef and baby beef exhibits and each draws many visitors.

The baby beef and the purebred beef entries were judged today. The results of the hog carcass competition will also be announced today.

Those with entries in the hog carcass show displayed the animals on the hoof Tuesday. The animals were then sent to Krueger's locker plant at Peotone for slaughtering. Carcasses were graded yesterday and the results will be announced today.

The sheep and the goat winners were picked yesterday, along with the dairy cattle and the garden products but because of mechanical requirements it is impossible to carry results in this issue.

County Issues Bldg. Permits In Orland Twp.

A building permit for a store and office in the 13500 block on Elm st. in Orland township has been issued by the Cook county building department to G.A. Mayhall, 12103 S. 75th ave., Palos Heights. The cost of the building is given at $36,600. Mayhall is listed as the contractor as well as the owner.

Another permit issued for work in Orland township went to Harry Shriman, 135th and Southwest highway. He plans to build a home on the south side of 135th st., west of Howe drive, Brashler and Kall Const. Co., is the contractor and the cost of the dwelling is given at $15,600.

The 4-H horse show was staged Tuesday night; last night dogs and autos had their moments and tonight at 7:30 the county dress review winners, and the tops in various other 4-H projects -- share the fun, agriculture and home economic demonstrations, top boy and girl speakers will have a program.

Yesterday afternoon the garden products and bakery entries were sold at auction.

Life is real and life is earnest when those judges begin their rounds and one learns how to be a good winner as well as a good loser.

With the Will County 4-H'ers winding up their fair today there will be, just tomorrow left in which to get the entire establishment made spic and span for the 17th annual South Cook County 4-H fair which will be held on Francis Field Saturday, Aug. 3.

The exhibits will be judged during the day. The 4-H king and queen will be announced at 8 o'clock Saturday night. There will also be a sale of 4-H products, including food and other merchandise on Saturday night.

Westhaven Awaits Action On Petition For Airport

A hearing is scheduled in Kansas City today before the Federal Aviation Agency on the petition of the village of Westhaven for authority to build a commercial airport.

According to Robert Biederman, village attorney, the plans under consideration call for facilities that would allow use of the airport by all craft except the large, ocean-spanning jets. Such a port, Westhaven officials hope, would be an added attraction for industry.

This area is the only open space of any size left in the metropolitan area, it was said, so it is a natural location for light industry, geographers have been pointing out for years. The Mokena and Frankfort plan commissions anticipating this industrial and residential growth have adopted a land use plan which should provide a guide for growth in the area.

For this reason the action of Westhaven officials has stirred considerable interest in those communities as well as others in the area.

Persons connected with commercial flying, who do not want to be quoted, say that another large airport should be built somewhere in this area. O'Hara field is too far away to really be convenient for the southwest territory, they say, and add they see no future for Midway.

It would be better to come to the southwest area and build another airport to serve this region as well as Chicago these professionals state but they do not say that the proposal by Westhaven is the answer.

They believe, like Attorney Biederman does, that the proximity of the WLS radio tower at 179th and U.S. 45 would intrude in the flight pattern and could be sufficient cause to have Westhaven's petition dismissed.

They were not concerned with the financing of such project, altho it was pointed out by others that this could be a problem too. According to Biederman the cost of the proposed airport would be met thru the sale of revenue bonds. How far the bond houses would go on such a deal is another problem, it was said.

A large airport would cost millions of dollars, it was pointed out.

Get New Reading Aids For New Lenox Schools

Teachers and pupils of the New Lenox school district, in grades one to four, will have new texts and phonics supplements to be used in the basic reading program when the 1963-64 school year begins in the fall.

Also teachers of the lower three grades will have new sets of word charts that will aid them in teaching phonetic analysis, structural analysis and other word recognition skills.

These new instructional materials were recommended by the faculty reading committee after it had spent considerable time in evaluating instructional reading materials and books during the 1962-63 school year.

Another enrichment to the total reading program of the New Lenox schools will be the new school library called the John Oster library in honor of the former superintendent of the schools. The new library will have 2,500 volumes and will function as the unit library and instructional materials center for all schools of the district #122.

Mrs. Evelyn Starnier is the chairman of the faculty reading committee.

The Fireworks Story --Misguided Missiles

The Mokena Chamber of Commerce has a problem.

For many years the Chamber has provided the fireworks that climax the community celebration of the Fourth of July.

This year the display was somewhat curtailed and there was some grumbling and criticism from a few of the spectators, some even hinting darkly that they might take their custom elsewhere come next Fourth. The fact that the Mokena fireworks display as furnished by the Chamber of Commerce is free, and no one even passes the hat, did not blunt some of the barbs voiced to members of the committee.

Whether such critics have clocked past performances or made personal inventories of the number of pieces set off, with a special column for duds or fizzes, is not clear but there were people who saw the display this year who declared that they were shorted and they let the committee know about it.

Well, folks, the committee is sorry, a spokesman stated this week, but really the circumstances were beyond its control. There were fewer fireworks. Two big boxes of them were not delivered until the latter part of last week. The late arrivals contained a fine assortment of aerial gadgets, you know, the rockets that break with a loud boom and shower stars and fire in the dark sky, plus some set pieces.

The next Fourth is almost a year off which leaves the Chamber with a problem. Shall it send the fireworks back to the manufacturer or keep them until next year? Some of the committee is in favor of shipping them back, pointing out that it is not an easy job to find someone willing to give the cargo storage.

Those insurance companies can be strict.

Tornado Alert Mobilizes CD

When the weather bureau reported that a tornado was heading in the direction of Frankfort, Mokena and Orland Park on July 22, Anthony Dina, Mokena civil defense director, alerted his communications set-up and was prepared to get help wherever it was needed in the area. Dick Lango, Denny Dina and William Miller manned the communications headquarters at Mokena.

They had a portable generator on hand so in the event a tornado did sit down in the area and destroyed the lines of the Public Service Co. Civil defense crews could still send and receive messages.

Others "manning the mikes" and their call letters, were: Harold Beebe, (W9OEQ) Mokena; Robert Porter, (W9EGO) Frankfort; Don Johnson, (W9ZIM) Wilmington; William Richards, (W9YIG), and Jack Burrows, (K9PRB) Joliet.

A funnel cloud was reported sighted north and east of the area but it did not touch ground. The CD is ready to act in any emergency, its officers said.

Gillettes Hold Annual Reunion

Perfect weather marked the annual Gillette Family reunion held in Haley Memorial park at Marley. The event was attended by 55 members of the family that began the custom of meeting annually in 1921.

The first reunion was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Gillette with about 50 members present. Mr. Gillette was in charge of the dairy farm at Stateville at the time.

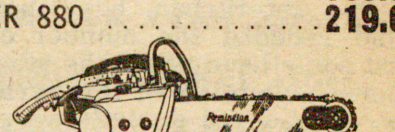

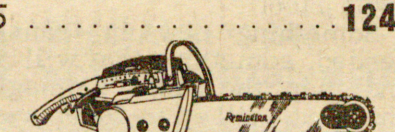

The next several reunions were held on the farm of Mr. and Mrs. H.B. Storm in New Lenox township, in a grove west of the Wabash right-of-way. In the beginning the reunions were held on the first Sunday after the Fourth of July but beginning in 1929 the date was shifted to the second Sunday. It was in 1929 that written records of the reunions were begun by E. D. Gillette, of Marley. This year, however, his health did not permit him to attend and it was the first reunion that he missed.

After the deaths of Mr. Storm and Dean Gillette in 1945 several years elapsed without a reunion being held, but they were resumed in 1954 thru the efforts of Mrs. Burton Gillette of New Lenox. Since 1955 the reunion has been held at Haley Memorial park.

Blake Tekotte had two of the six hits made by Arbury Hills and scored the team's lone run on a smack by Bill Roach. Dan Doogan had Arbury's only extra base knock, stretching a long single into a two-bagger with a perfect slide. The week previous the two teams met on the Arbury Hills diamond. Al Carlson got four hits that day. Ron Schlack three and Pelka two. Both of Pelka's blows were long ones, a triple and a home run, that brought in four runs. Bill Zebella started on the mound for Mokena, giving up six runs on six hits before tiring in the sixth. Pelka came in then to halt an Arbury rally. Zebella walked only two and struck out five. Arbury Hills was held to nine hits, Mancke and McCarter each had two and LaRocca drove in two runs.

Need New Form Of Transportation--

There has been a lot of profound thinking done relative to what man may do when and if he makes a landing on the moon, or on some other planet.

This is all very fine and if a person is going to travel to the moon or become a space explorer, someone is going to have to put in a lot of thought on the subject. No one will disagree with that.

We hope, however, that some of the big brains will find it rewarding to devote attention to one of our biggest terrestrial problems -- traffic.

How are we to transport goods and people in dense population areas--say 25 years from now?

The automobile manufacturers and the highway builders can increase the output of their products but left to themselves they will never be in balance. The car makers can step up their production but the cars have to have something to run on and there is no doubt but that building cars is a faster process than building highways. So it would appear that eventually a saturation point will be reached and traffic will move so slowly that we could reach our destinations in less time if we got out and walked.

We have trains and we have busses but it is difficult to persuade the public to use such conveyances in sufficient numbers to make such forms of transportation profitable.

Electric interurban lines once provided a means of travel that gave the country and suburban dwellers a fast link with cities. But the growth of the automobile industry killed travel on the interurban. The street car was the next victim and the busses that replaced the street cars are having difficulty in finding riders.

The suburban or commuting trains are also reporting fewer riders with the result that the operating lines have been reducing the number of trains and rearranging time schedules. Too frequently the new times are not conducive to attracting passengers who want to shop or attend some form of entertainment.

The interurban bus lines have also reduced the number of trips and some have asked the state commerce commission for permission to "cease and desist" operations.

Many factors are involved in the situation. Commerce and industry have been moving into the country and such offices and plants may be reached for the most part only by private automobiles. The same can be said for the large shopping centers. The only way to reach them is to get in a car and drive there.

The result is that the highways are becoming so choked by the mingling of local and transient traffic that traveling by car is no longer a pleasurable convenience or recreation. It has become a difficult and dangerous job. And even with the journey completed the motorist is faced with yet another headache -- where to park?

In another 25 years this southwest area will no longer be suburban. By that time it should be a part of a megapolis. By that time one can expect such a maze of highways that one will have difficulty negotiating them without a navigator unless the automobile makers come up with some sort of an automatic pilot by means of which one may be able to select his destination and turn the car loose.

It seems that in the face of certain growth of the area that bus lines would be seeking permits to serve the territory rather than to shy away from it. On the other hand such lines can't operate unless they make a profit. And if they are to make a profit they must have riders. But all pleas and campaigns to get the public to use forms of mass transportation have been futile.

The only way to win over the public to the use of mass transportation, as we see it, is to provide some new means. We admit that we have no solution. If we did we no longer would be operating a typewriter with three fingers and battling against deadlines. We would be in demand as a consultant on traffic problems in every built up center of the world.

But as we pointed out in the beginning, perhaps somewhere there is a brain more interested in earth's problems than those of the solar system that will endeavor to meet the need of getting ourselves and our goods to and from places with ease and convenience and at a reasonably swift pace.

Something new in transport is needed, something that will interest and grip the public's imagination, and that will give them a service they cannot compete with, with their own means of transportation.

On Second Thought

By GLENN F. LOGAN

The post office department has gone machine crazy.

We suppose it is to be expected in this age of guided missiles, space craft and the zooming cost of living but why has the post office gone speed nuts?

Here it has been going along for years and years, keeping a tight rein on salaries and piling up a steady deficit.

All federal government departments and bureaus operate on deficits because if they didn't how could the heads go to congressional committees and ask for and get larger appropriations?

We don't know which is the most efficient and successful federal agency--which is to say which one has the largest deficit--but if the post office keeps on buying machines and devices with the avowed intention of speeding up mail deliveries it should be right up there among the top spenders.

Why all this zeal to speed up mail deliveries is beyond your correspondent. As far as this desk is concerned we would say that if 85 per cent of it never arrived no one would be the loser.

Oh, sometimes one reads about a postcard or a letter that was mailed months or years before it was finally delivered. But that doesn't happen frequently. Just why that happens has never been explained clearly but we doubt that any machine would prevent it unless someone came up with a gadget that a clerk could hold up and say, "Look around now, big boy, and see if we missed anything."

The latest thing--at least it is the latest thing described in publicity releases sent out by the post office is a gadget (relatively inexpensive it says here) that will speed up the sorting of airmail.

The stamps that will be used will be printed with special luminescent ink. An ultraviolet sensing device will pick out the mail so stamped and sort it so fast that it is expected it will save an average of half an hour in the dispatch of airmail. The piece doesn't say whether the luminescent ink will add any speed to the planes carrying the mail.

Sometime ago, in the interest of economy, the post office announced that home deliveries would be cut from two to one a day. Which makes one wonder why all the rush to get the mail sorted.

The so-called ZIP code is another device now in use that is supposed to save time in sorting but just why a letter bearing a ZIP code number will reach a recipient any faster than one without such a number remains to be seen.

Granted that a stamp is cheaper than a toll call but if speed of communication is desired no one is going to write a letter--except to confirm the spoken word--if a telephone is available.

In some of the cities--where business areas have more than one mail delivery a day--the post office is spending extra money to provide same-day service. Mail a letter in the morning and it will be delivered in the afternoon.

"Great stuff," the postoffice will enjoy having you say but what difference does it really make? If the same mail was put in a box the evening before it probably would be delivered the next morning and if it wasn't delivered then it would be by afternoon and if not in the afternoon--well, sometime.

We would be willing to wager that a lot of mail--that the sender labels important--is not posted until Sunday night when it could have been put in a box on Friday. And all the machinery the post office can dream up to "speed" delivery of mail is not going to have much effect on human nature.

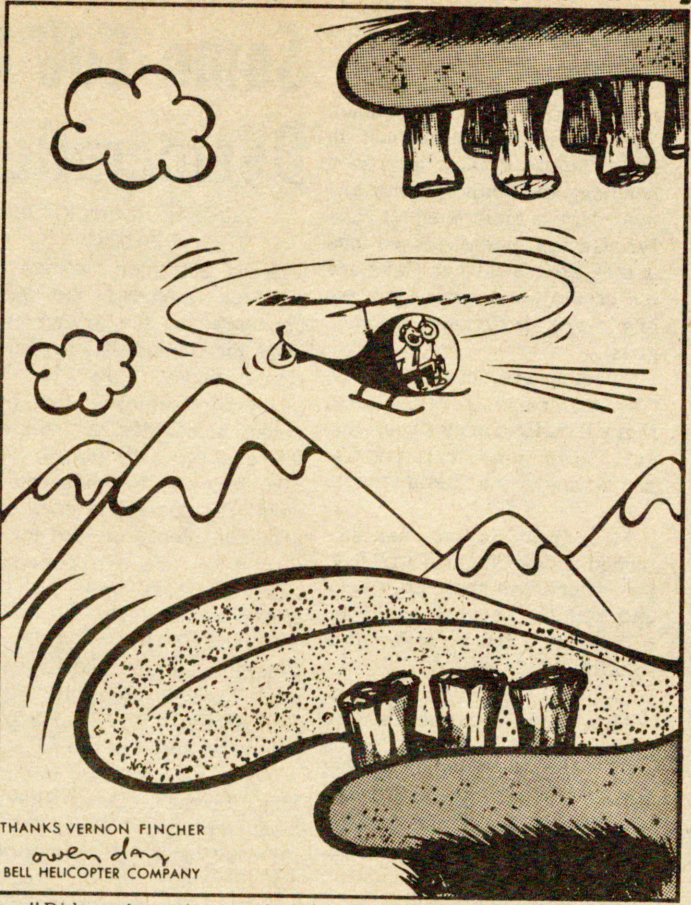

It could be, you know, that if the postal department keeps on filling post offices with machines there won't be any room left for employees or customers. That will necessitate the building of new post offices and that will cost a pretty penny.

As we said a while back--if the post office keeps on buying machines to increase its efficiency it will have a deficit that will be--well, the Greeks have a word for it and so do the movie makers--COLOSSAL.

Business & Finance

BY MAURICE P. ANGLAND

The market has been predicted by many analysts to be on the verge of and on the way to higher price levels, but the predictions have not been realized as of market action in the last several weeks.

The market gives no signs of any substantial liquidation, but rather there have been evidences of substantial purchases by institutional investors.

An analyst comment of market action during past several weeks, often is that the top grade stocks have advanced substantially, but that the secondary issues have not responded to the market enthusiasms. Analysts known to this column express the belief that the secondaries must rise with secondary issues to confirm business improvements.

Market news reports continue to show good six months reports and predictions of good things for the balance of the year and into 1964. A Chicago financial writer headlines his column "News is good, but the market just can't read."

In explanation of market actions, some students point out that the market action often does not reflect business progress as much as it does investor enthusiasms.

Proponents of this idea point to the fact that business trends are not as volatile as market action from time to time.

Students of investment successes often note that the investor who is trying to catch a profit on short term market swings, is not always successful. The more patient and careful investor, is often the most successful. There are investment services which purport to aid the investor in these efforts to profit on sudden business changes and popular investment enthusiasms. We, however, believe that changes in business type emphasis is not of a sudden nature and that the careful selection on sound analysis will produce the greatest rewards. Large institutions and the Mutual Funds have done well over the years and their investments are largely based on careful study.

Industrial production as reported by the Federal Reserve Index reached a new high in May altho percentage gain in June is reported as slower than earlier months. Output of steel is expected to show slowing down in July due to industry efforts to absorb inventory increases made as a hedge against earlier expectations of a steel strike. A number of leading industry analysts express belief these inventories will be smaller than expected and general business activity better than expected with result of little slow down in steel production.

The U. S. News & World Report notes that considerable optimism is reported among manufacturers by the National Industrial Conference board. "About 80 per cent of firms surveyed expected improved orders during the second half of the year. Nearly two thirds expect profits before taxes to top earnings of 1962."

"Building activity rose 2 per cent in June to reach levels of last October. "Prospects now are for a near-record year in construction of dwellings."

"Vacancy rates of residences are not rising, despite boom in housing construction. Commerce Department finds little change in vacancies from the first to second quarters of the current year."

This magazine reports that 400 professional economists from 40 colleges and labor unions as well as business groups, are seeking a tax cut to stimulate national growth. The argument is made that aggregate demand is deficient and causing unemployment. They believe that such demand stimulation can be secured best by budget and monetary means. However that monetary moves are hindered country's balance of payments position and that the results can be obtained by a tax cut and even greater spending.

WILLIAM F. WHITESIDE
Cook County Farm Adviser
Tinley Park 532-4369

This week-end, Aug. 3, is the big one for 4-H club members in southern Cook County. This is the time of the annual 4-H Fair to be held at Fred A. Francis 4-H Field starting at 9 a.m. and continuing throughout the day and early evening.

4-H members will be exhibiting the results of their efforts in project work during the past year. Visitors will be able to see livestock, garden products, handicraft, poultry, rabbits, and almost anything else that is of interest to boys and girls between the ages of 10 and 21. The public is cordially invited to attend the Fair and view the exhibits and participate in the many activities conducted as a part of the Fair.

Demonstration plots have been one of the important vehicles for getting new agricultural information to farmers for the past 50 years. This year the Extension Service has conducted demonstrations showing the performance of oat and soybean varieties, weed control chemicals and various materials for mulching the soil surface. I would like to say thank you to Lester Sayers and Lloyd Brandau, who helped us with the oat variety demonstration plots. These plots have been harvested and yield results will be available in the near future. A soybean plot is doing well at the Herb Kohl farm just south of Volmer Road and east of Cicero Avenue. Any one interested in performance of a number of soybean varieties is welcome to view the progress of this plot from now until harvest time. The weed control demonstrations have been confined to vegetable crops this year. These plots are located on the H. J. Paarlberg farm, South Holland, Richard Biesborer farm, Glenwood, and the farm of Howard Paarlberg and Menno Hiwarsma, Chicago Heights. Our thanks to all these co-operators who have helped us to provide farm people the opportunity to see any chemicals or new products in action.

Early risers in the south suburban area may be interested in watching TV station WGN at 7:30 a.m. July 31. Joan Uthe, a very active 4-H member from Markham, will appear on the Oran Samuelson show to discuss some of the activities being planned for the 4-H Fair on Aug. 3. Joan is currently president of the South Cook 4-H Federation and was queen of the 1962 4-H Fair.

The Northern Illinois farm management tour will be held in Kane County on Sept. 4. Detailed records on this farm have shown efficient utilization of land and capital and of farmer labor. This farm produces twice as much as the average farm. Poured concrete silos, high moisture shelled corn, and automatic auger feed bunk allow one man to feed 300 head choice feeder calves and do the crop work on the 180 acre farm. Details about this tour will be furnished when they are available.

THE REV. GLENN AMES new pastor for the New Lenox Methodist congregation is no stranger to the area. The Rev. Mr. Ames was pastor of the Tinley Park Methodist church some years ago but was sent to New Lenox from Elmwood Park at the recent session of the Rock River conference. The Rev. Mr. and Mrs. Ames were at Elmwood Park for six years.

Aug. 26 Is Fee Week In Orland Grade Schools

Due to the considerable increase in enrollment in the Orland Park public schools, and to avoid the rush and confusion of the first day of school, parents are asked to please cooperate by paying school fees for the year 1963-64 during the week of Aug. 26. The request was made by Supt. Norbert Jerling. The fees cover the rent for text books.

"All new residents to the district, should phone or come in to the school as soon as possible, if they have not as yet registered their children, the superintendent stated.

Facilities at Orland Center school may not be available to accommodate all classes by the opening of school, Sept. 3, so seven classes, which would be conducted at Center School, will be held at Orland Park School, 9960 West 143rd street, until the new addition is completed. Classes will be set up in the lunchroom, gymnasium and other parts of the Park building for a few months.

Except for dismantling the two-story frame structure that formerly housed the Liston Sweet Shop, Mr. Kurber said he has no immediate plans for the property.

The property was purchased from Earl Krisan, of Chicago. It has a 60-foot frontage on Front st. and is 100 feet deep. The consideration was not disclosed.

One of these offenders was Alexander Keal, Tinley Park, who was found to have a reason for not stopping--faulty brakes. Letters To The Editor

VOICES OPINIONS

Dear Sir:

Only by writing to our congressmen and Senators, can we make them aware of our desires. Their actions are supposed to be in our interest however their "voting records" prove that they sometimes do not know what is best for us. Therefore, I would like to remind my limited number of readers, of three issues which are of great importance. All of us should take the time to express our opinions to our voices in congress.

First: There is a Bill -- H.R. 3613, offered by Congressman Utt of California. He proposes to repeal the Arms Control and Disarmament Act which is State Department Document 7277 and Public Law 87-297. The provisions, of this law, are being carried out at present. Within another two years, we may awaken and discover that we have been denied of all our defensive weapons and Armed Forces. In their place, we shall have only the protection of The United Nations World Police Force which is controlled by a Russian, DO NOT DELAY, write to your Representative today. The bill is now in Committee. For your information, only 37 members of congress voted against Public Law 87-297.

Second: The Bills which propose to deprive the interstate commerce commission of any power to regulate minimum rates on bulk commodities and agricultural products, are not in the public interest category. The railroads are spending millions on lobbying (not unusual) and mail sent direct to you. If this fraud is allowed to be perpetrated, the results will not save you any more money than did the rate cutting on the shipping of automobiles on the tri-level flat cars. The rate charged is less than the over-the-road (rail) handling cost. In Chicago, we pay the old rates of about $60, to $80, per auto from Detroit. The factory is paying only about $9, each and pockets the difference. One manufacturer made over $35 millions last year with this scheme. The savings should have been passed to you. It will be the same with the aforementioned commodities. The railroads will merely cut rates in order to kill all other competition. The railroads are laying off men everyday in spite of increased tonnage hauled. This is possible because of modernization and court decisions. Keep the trucks on the highways and save at least 100 thousand jobs. The GOLD which they pour into state treasuries via fuel, licence, sales taxes and the drivers' paychecks are vital to our economy while there is so much unemployment.

Write and ask your Representatives to vote NO on H.R. 4700. Tell your Senator to vote NO on S. 1061.

Third: There is a man who was given political asylum (This is a great American tradition) but he is now being treated like a dog. The State Department has done nothing for him nor has our supreme court. This man has a spotless record regarding his anti-Communist stand. He was decorated by our government a few years ago. This was for his pro-Western anti-Communist attitude while he was in power in his native land. Due to the twisted, confused policy of our state department, he was put in jail because the present ruler of his country insisted upon it.

This poor fellow is Perez Jimenez and his prosecutor is Romulo Betancourt of Venezuela (a long time friend of Castro) who will certainly snatch him away from the safety of our country and use him as a target for the firing squad, unless we register our protest with the Honorable Dean Rusk, Secretary of State, Washington D.C. and President John F. Kennedy, White House, Washington D.C.

The supreme court turned down his last appeal on June 17, July 9, the state department listened to his lawyers' pleas. On Aug. 17 the state department gives its decision which could be the end for Mr. Jimenez unless you WRITE TODAY, Let us try to save the life of this good man.

Patriotically yours,
Henry W. Hicks

Hints For Homeowners

BY: JAMES FIZZELL,
ASSOCIATE FARM ADVISER

These last few days of July and the first part of August are important ones for pansy fanciers.

For plants to bloom early in the Spring, sow pansy seed the latter part of July in this area. If healthy pansy plants are set out early in the Fall, they will bloom later before Winter. They'll even bloom during the winter if there is an extended thaw.

It takes about four weeks from the time seed is sown in hot weather to grow seedlings with six to eight leaves. This is a good size for transplanting into garden or cold frame. To come through the Winter well, pansies require another four weeks to become established and reach blooming size before cold weather starts.

Plant pansy seed in a mixture of one part loam, one part sand and one part peat moss. Place the seeds thinly and evenly in rows about two inches apart. Cover them lightly with soil. Keep the seedbed moist but not wet, and near 58 degrees F. during the five-to-seven day germination period.

Many gardeners prefer to buy pansy plants in the fall at transplanting time. The better strains are grown by nurserymen and florists in this area. When pansy plants are ready to set out, lift the seedlings carefully, and reset them at the same level as in the seedbed. Usually the plants are spaced about 6 to 10 inches apart in the garden.

After the ground freezes, apply a mulch of peat moss or straw to prevent temperature fluctuations. Hard freezing does not usually harm pansies, but alternate freezing and thawing

Refuse Disposal Growing Problem, Reports Metropolitan Plan Body

A growing menace to the beauty and healthfulness of the Chicago area will reach crisis proportions well before 1980, unless better methods are used in disposing a huge expected accumulation of garbage and other refuse.

Tho the annual production of refuse is increasing steadily, a growing public aversion to smelly and messy refuse dumps now in use is actually resulting in the closing of disposal facilities as the need for them increases.

This is in spite of the fact that better methods now exist and can be used to dispose of refuse efficiently and inconspicuously in built-up areas "without any detrimental effects on surrounding properties."

These are the key findings of a new report on REFUSE DISPOSAL NEEDS AND PRACTICES IN NORTHEASTERN ILLINOIS now being distributed to local governments by the Northeastern Illinois Metropolitan area planning commission, including Mokena, Frankfort, New Lenox and Orland Park. The first of its kind for a major metropolitan area, the 72-page report estimates the needs for space to dispose of refuse produced in the six-county, 3,714 square mile Northeastern Illinois Metropolitan Area, year by year from 1960 to 1980, and matches the needs against present disposal capacities based on a detailed field survey conducted in 1960.

Claims Plan Body Report Misses Mark

A spokesman for the private refuse disposal industry said Wednesday that the Chicago area isn't really running out of dump sites.

Harold P. Jensen, executive director of the Chicago and Suburban Refuse Disposal Association, said a new survey reveals many possible locations for sanitary dump sites in the six-county Chicago area. "What we need," said Jensen, "is an educational campaign to alert residents to the fact that well-operated dumps aren't nuisances." He pointed out that some of the area's best parks and beaches once were dump sites.

Jensen was commenting on a report by the Northeastern Illinois Metropolitan Area Planning Commission on the problems of refuse disposal. He said the problem really is a lack of public understanding of modern disposal practices.

Jensen agreed that some dump operators in the past neglected to protect surrounding communities from the smells and sights that went with old-fashioned dumping methods. But he said modern sanitary landfills eliminate the smells and other bad features of old-time garbage dumps.

Dumping charges are a major element in the cost of operating private refuse disposal services, Jensen said, "and that means the industry is vitally interested in keeping dumping costs low and in having disposal sites located within reasonable traveling distances of the communities they serve."

Sanitary landfill operations are the most economical method of refuse disposal, Jensen said.

Said Jensen, "The best landfills in the Chicago area are so well operated that neighbors often aren't aware of them."

The matching of needs vs. facilities results in estimates of when disposal space will be exhausted - for the metropolitan area, for the counties, and for 22 localized sub-regions. The Metropolitan Area Planning Commission report also analyzes the ownership and operation of disposal sites in Northeastern, Illinois, the movement of refuse from source to disposal site, and a number of problems associated with refuse disposal.

In the region that includes Orland Park, and the most of Tinley Park, along with Lansing and Harvey, it is estimated that the present sites for garbage and refuse disposal will be exhausted before 1965. By 1980 it is expected that the load of garbage and refuse will have grown to over 18 million tons. A small piece of Tinley is included in the section in which Chicago Heights is located, along with Park Forest, Crete, Mokena and Peotone.

In the section devoted to Joliet, which includes New Lenox, Frankfort and Mokena the existing sewer sites will be exhausted by 1970.

Copies of the report are available at $3 apiece.

In outline, the refuse disposal problem documented in the new Northeastern Illinois study is as follows:

1. In 1960, 14 million cubic yards of refuse were collected in the metropolitan area comprising the counties of Cook, DuPage, Kane, Lake, McHenry, and Will. By 1980 it is expected that the annual volume will have reached 18 million cubic yards. This means that between now and 1980 more than 200 million cubic yards of garbage and other refuse will have accumulated in the metropolitan area -- enough refuse to cover the entire City of Chicago to a depth of one foot.
2. Meanwhile, the facilities to dispose of this huge volume are rapidly being filled up and are actually shrinking in number. Between 1960 and 1963, for example, five of the metropolitan area's 72 disposal sites were closed down.
3. A measure of the urgency of the problem is that in two of the counties -- Cook and DuPage--existing disposal sites will be filled to ground level before 1965, according to the Planning Commission report. This assumes that facilities

On the same basis, disposal sites in Kane County are expected to be filled between 1965 and 1970, and in Lake County between 1970 and 1980. In only two of the six counties -- McHenry and Will--is there sufficient refuse disposal capacity to last beyond 1980.

4. Space for refuse in Northeastern Illinois is not only scarce; it is remote from population centers. Fifty four percent of remaining disposal capacity is in just two far removed open dumps -- a huge gravel pit in southwest McHenry County, and a strip mine in southwest Will county.

5. The refuse disposal dilemma in Northeastern Illinois is partly psychological: According to the report, "A very negative, unpleasant image confronts public officials wherever consideration is given to locating a new disposal site. The viewpoint commonly expressed is, 'If a new dump is necessary we are agreeable, as long as it's not located in our area.'"

6. Unfortunately, the bad public image of refuse disposal is not far from the mark as far as present disposal methods are concerned. More than three-fourths of the remaining refuse disposal capacity in Northeastern Illinois is at "open dumps" -- sites where garbage and other refuse is simply dumped and left exposed to the atmosphere and the breeding of flies and rodents. The situation is about the same for publicly owned as for privately operated facilities. Only five of the area's publicly owned disposal sites are of the proper modern kind.

7. On the positive side, the Metropolitan Planning Commission report finds that methods now known and in use can solve the problem, once the public is made aware of them. The "sanitary landfill" method for example, can dispose of refuse without the stench, unsightliness, and infestation associated with open dumps. The report cites the municipal sanitary landfill in Winnetka as an example of a disposal facility which is successfully operating near a high quality residential district, and without any depressing effect on property values.

8. One of the most dangerous by-products of today's "open dump" disposal practices is potential pollution of underground water sources, by seepage of contaminated water from the disposal sites. The report notes that the water needs of approximately 1,500,000 persons in Northeastern Illinois are supplied from wells tapping the underground reservoirs.

9. The illegal dumping of refuse along highways and in waterways is another problem, which becomes worse as resistance to the opening of new disposal sites sharpens the shortage of legal disposal space.

10. Other problems considered in the report are increased flooding in cases where refuse dumps near streams cause flood waters to back up behind them, and increased costs of disposal as public pressures force disposal sites farther and farther away from the sources of refuse. The report warns that garbage disposal will require truck trips of 100 miles or more unless "public officials and the general public recognize the inevitability of refuse disposal in or near urbanized areas."

Approves Zoning Changes In Bremen, Worth Twps.

(CNS) The Cook county board has approved zoning changes for an existing Bremen township bar and a Worth township fish bait store, and to add a gas station to the latter.

Action was deferred on the motion of Commissioner Charles Grupp on a recommendation received from the zoning board of appeals to grant an application by Otto Hartl, 11725 Ridgeland ave., Worth, for a special use for expansion of a house trailer park on five acres 452 feet east of Ridgeland and 398 feet north of 119th street extended, west of the Tri-State tollway.

This was after receipt of minutes of the village of Worth board of trustees on April 2 opposing the expansion.

The bar and restaurant in Bremen township approved was on application of Dorothy Lynch, 8155 South Loomis, Chicago on 1.25 acre on the northeast corner of 147th and Justamere road. Zoning was change, in order to validate the use, from B-2 (restricted service) and B-3 (single - family residence, 20,000 square feet, to B-4 (general service) district.

The fish bait shop and gas station approved are on 3/4 acre on the northeast corner of 95th and Newcastle ave., Worth township. Richard J. Riecke, 6834 West 95th, Oak Lawn, and Louis A. Brasco, 6830 West 95th, with Clark Oil and Refining Co. were the applicants.

Two new applications, one in Worth and one in Orland township, were referred to the Zoning Board of Appeals for hearing.

One was by Chicago Title and Trust Co., Trust 36613, to rezone 57 acres bounded on the west by Kedzie, on the north by 123rd, and on the south by 126th street, Worth township, from M-3 (heavy manufacturing - to B-5 (general commercial.) The plan is to build an amusement park and picnic grove.

The other was by Arthur Turner Rawsthorne, 11350 West 159th St., Orland Park, to rezone 3/4 acre on the northeast corner of 114th avenue and 159th street, Orland township, from R-3 (single family residence, 20,000 sq. ft.) to B-1 (restricted business) district, to permit the operation of a delicatessen.

Little Bill reports:

Mailman Carl Jacobson stops on his appointed rounds to look on in amazement at the number of electrical helpers the Dwyer family owns--and who could blame him!

Actually, the Dwyers are fairly typical of all of us. They've been adding more electrical helpers to their household every year. And like most of us, they're using lots more (about 3 times as much) electricity today, but paying less for it per kilowatt hour.

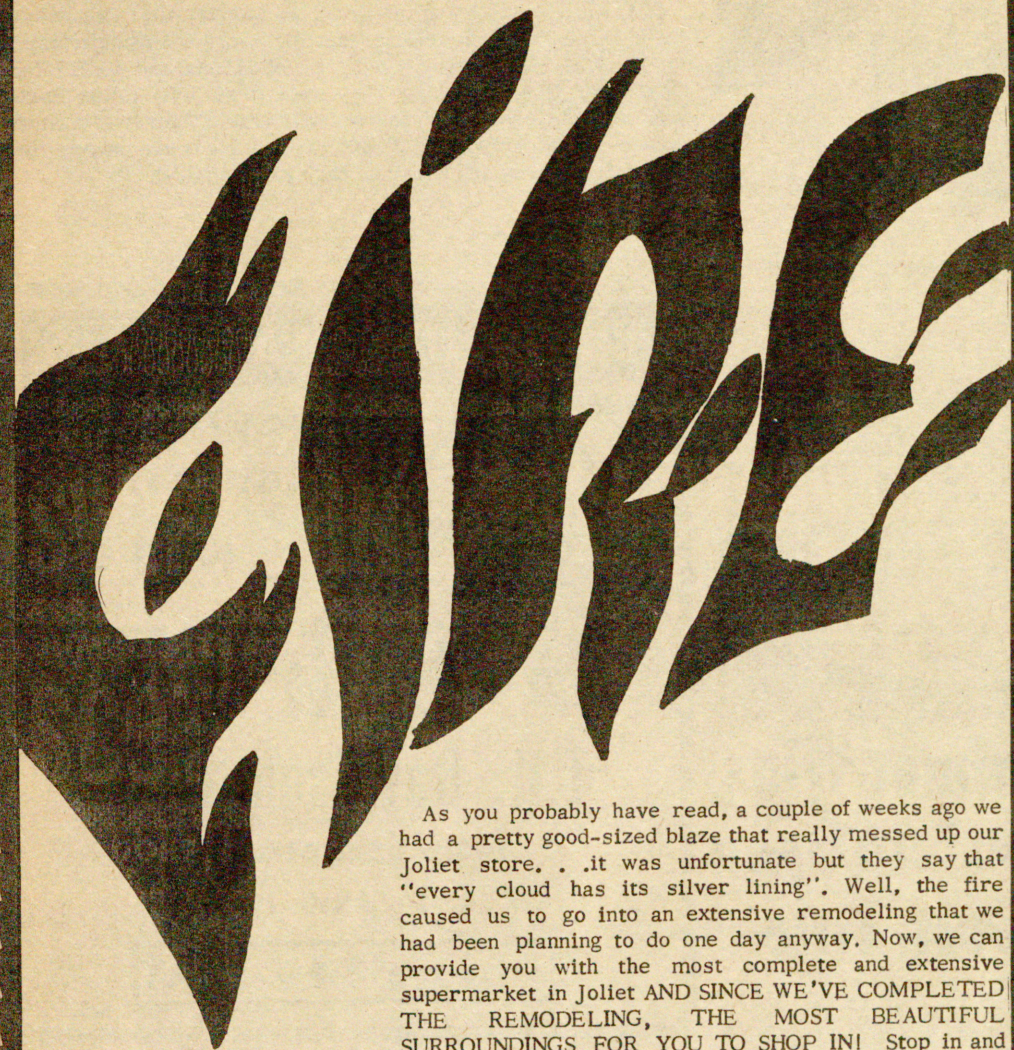

The Ed Dwyers run these forty-one appliances for only 36¢ worth of electricity a day

One reason for this is the Power Grid System, which connects our power lines with companies in forty-three states. This system allows us to buy (or sell) power at advantageous rates, keeping down the price you pay. That's another reason why it costs so little to live better electrically today!

Have Great Time At Lions Festival

Annual fun fair and festival of the New Lenox Lions club was held last week-end and it was apparent that everyone had an enjoyable time.

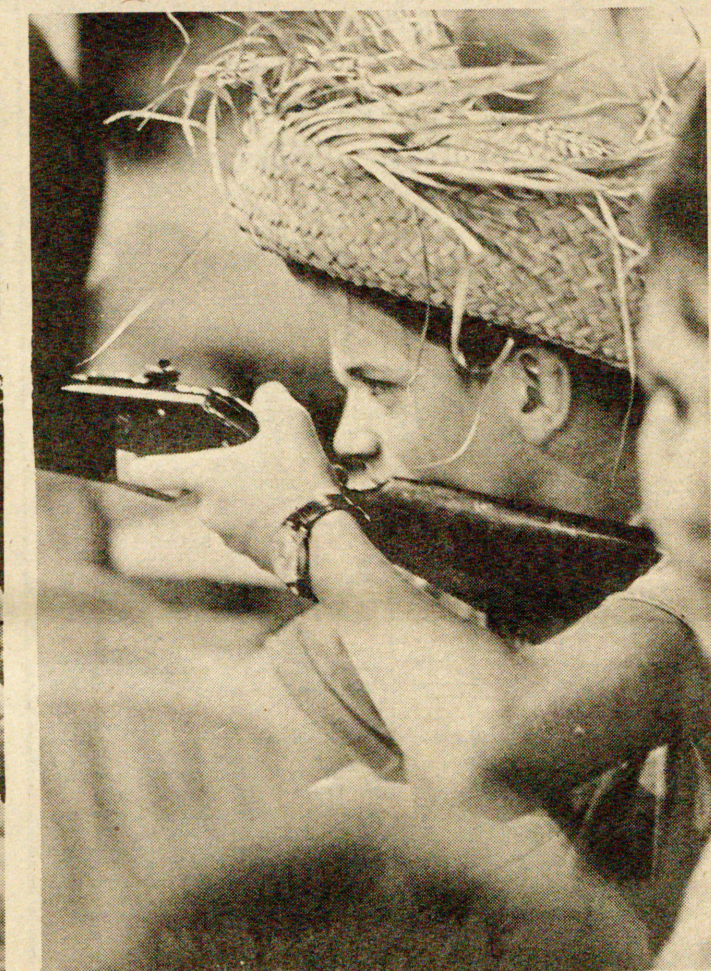

These pictures show some of the people that thronged the Lions Den grounds on South Cedar road Friday and Saturday nights. The weather was good and everything ran off smoothly.

The auction is probably the most popular feature of the annual festival. For weeks preceding the affair members of the Lions club go about the area picking up items that owners are preparing to dispose of or are willing to let go. These articles are sold at the auction and there are always plenty of bidders. The objects range from something small enough to put in a vest pocket--when vests are worn--to something big enough to just squeeze thru a kitchen door, like a refrigerator for instance. There are also, all kinds of games and contests to be found at the festival, including a shooting gallery, roll-downs, ball throwing and other carnival attractions. Money realized at the festival is used by the New Lenox Lions in their various charity and community enterprises.

County Awards 'Rumbler' Contracts For Highways

(CNS) - The county awarded contracts this week to continue its "rumbler" warning system.

The rumbler system was originated eight years ago by the county highway department and consists of a pebbled highway surface that causes a rumbling effect as your car rolls over it. (Wolf road has several rumblers north of Orland Park).

According to Seymour Simon, County President, 59 stop signs on suburban area roads will be rumblered this year. Simon said, "before rumbling was started, a highway department survey in which more than 58,000 vehicles were tallied revealed violations as high as 62 per cent. Many drivers rolled past the sign at reduced speed and some did not slow down at all."

"Checks at the same locations after rumbling show much improved performance. Probably many previous violators were not aware they were coming to a stop sign. Now they get the message from the rumble," said Simon.

The contracts awarded by the County Board for rumbling also covers seal coat treatment of portions of 41 roads under county maintenance. These roads, which include some streets in Chicago and suburbs as well as in unincorporated areas, will be patched and then surfaced with a coat of asphalt containing stone chips.

Westhaven Lad Faces 11 Charges

Dean Cashman, 18, 159th and U.S. 45, Westhaven, is facing 11 charges as a result of a wild ride in the early hours of last Sunday.

Bridgeview police held Cashman when he was unable to post a $600 bond. Lieut. Hansen Perkins, of Bridgeview police, reports that he clocked Cashman at speeds of 100 mph. Bridgeview charges the Westhaven resident with reckless driving, speeding, driving without a license, driving without registration and disorderly conduct. He is to have a hearing Aug. 16.

At Palos Heights Cashman was charged with reckless driving and driving without a license. He is to appear in court there Aug. 5. His bond has been set at $125. At Worth, where his bond is $175, Cashman is charged with reckless driving, speeding, driving without a license and disorderly conduct.

According to Lieut. Perkins he started the chase when Cashman speeded past him at 8th street, heading south on Harlem.
